THE South-Carolina GAZETTE.

From THURSDAY July 1ſt, to THURSDAY July 8th, 1756.

LONDON, April 6.

FROM the method the French have taken to preſerve their trade, we may conclude, that our men of war and privateers (if any of the latter ſhould be fitted out) will make but a very poor harveſt of trading veſſels, as the Dutch, Danes, Swedes, Pruſſians, and other foreigners, will be carriers of French goods both in Europe and America; and if our ſea commanders ſhould have inſtructions to ſtop and ſeize neutral ſhips, on account of their having on board the produce or manufacture of France and her colonies, ſuch conduct will firſt beget a paper war between Britiſh and foreign civilians, and perhaps ſomething worſe afterwards; becauſe, though it may be very eaſy to prove a cargo the product or manufacture of France, it may ſometimes be difficult, and ſometimes impoſſible, to prove it to be French property. We may indeed call this France's laſt ſhift; but call it what you pleaſe, it muſt be acknowledged it will ſubject us to great inconveniences and diſadvantages, in caſe matters come to an open rupture, as we ſhall have nothing but king's ſhips and privateers to take. It behoves us, therefore, to be extremely active and vigilant, and ſeek every opportunity to give ſome deciſive blow to the enemy's navy; for whilſt they have fleets to convoy land forces to America, 'tis to be feared that they will be able to make good by the ſword thoſe claims which they are incapable of ſupporting by the pen.

Breſt, March 21. Though the ſquadron which ſailed from hence for America, under Mr. Perrier de Salvert, had a great number of troops on board, it is more likely that they were intended for the Iſlands than for Canada. The ſuccours deſigned for that country are to be carried by the marquis de Conflans; after the arrival of which reinforcement, it's computed that the army will conſiſt of 15 or 16,000 regular troops, independent of the ſavages in our alliance.

London, April 8. This day the following gentlemen waited on his majeſty with the addreſs from the merchants of this city, it being his majeſty's pleaſure to be attended by a deputation only: Robert Nettleton, George Amyand, James Crokatt, Jonas Hanway, Joſeph Melliſh, John Thornton, and Samuel Touchett, Eſqrs. (who were of the committee for drawing up the addreſs; to whom were added) Sir Joſhua Van Neck, Bart. William Mayne, Henry Muilman, George Preſcott, Joſeph Salvadore, Henry Shiffner, Peter Simond, and John Watkins, Eſqrs.

His majeſty received them in a moſt gracious manner, and, after an anſwer given in form, was pleaſed to ſay, That he well remembered the great ſervice the merchants were of to the whole kingdom in the time of the late rebellion, by uniting together in ſupporting the bank, and conſequently the credit of the kingdom in general; and did not doubt but they would do the ſame on the preſent or any future occaſion.

Breſt, March 24. Eight men of war and a frigate are expected ſoon from Rochefort, to join the fleet of the marquis de Conflans, which is deſtined for Canada.

Bruſſels, April 1. A great number of flat bottomed boats are expected in the ports of Flanders, with a large quantity of faſcines prepared in Normandy.

It is rumoured that a treaty of alliance, offenſive and defenſive, is concluded between the houſe of Auſtria and France: But this wants confirmation.

General Abercrombie is appointed colonel of the regiment of foot in America.

Lord Lindores ſucceeds general Abercrombie in one of the new raiſed regiments.

Col. Amhurſt ſucceeds general Cornwallis as colonel of a regiment of foot at Minorca.

The Amitie, ——, from Martinico for Marſeilles, with 800 hogſheads of ſugar, 700 bales of coffee, and ſome of cochineal, is carried into Gibraltar by the Experiment man of war.

One of the Dutch gazettes ſays, that the young pretender is actually incog. in Paris, and that he has received viſits from ſeveral princes of the blood.

We hear the number of large Dutch ſhips now lading at Shields, with coals, for France, will be ordered, under proper convoy, into the river Thames, and be paid an ample freight, as the city of London is in great want of coals.

Some of the veſſels that trade between England and France have obtained the French king's paſſports for 6 months to paſs to and fro unmoleſted.

Nantes, March 30. Three armed ſhips are lately gone from Port L'Orient for the coaſt of Coromandel.

Paris, April 3. We affect to give out a multitude of things here, that may poſſibly in a weeks time be found no better than fictions. We deſtine the Toulon fleet for the conqueſt of Minorca; that from Breſt is to reduce the iſlands of Guernſey, and Jerſey. Our land troops in the neighbourhood of Calais are likewiſe to do wonders.

London, April 13. The laſt letters from Plymouth mention that admiral Holbourn, in the Terrible, lay in the Sound ready to ſail, together with the Aſſiſtance, Goſport, Grafton, Lyme, Sheerneſs, Portmahone, Eſſex, Monmouth, Torbay, Nottingham, and Stirling Caſtle, with 7 tranſports for America.

London, April 15. Admiral Byng's ſquadron is put back to Plymouth by hard gales of wind at Weſt.

All the artificers at Woolwich are obliged to work ſundays and week-days alike, with the greateſt expedition poſſible, in preparing chain ſhot and large mortars, with many other warlike ſtores.

His majeſty's wheelwrights have received orders to buy up all the farmers waggons they poſſibly can, there not being time to make new ones, for ſome private expedition.

On the 11th inſtant lord John Murray's and col. Otway's regiments embarked at Plymouth for America.

Col. Kingſley is ſet out for Harwich, to wait there for the landing of the Heſſian troops.

A draught was made this day of 20 men out of every company in the foot guards.

Since the prince of Soubize's arrival at Dunkirk, all the Engliſh, and even outlawed Smugglers, have been ordered to depart that town; but they have leave to reſide in other places of the French territory diſtant from it. Hence it is to be preſumed there is ſome important buſineſs to be done at Dunkirk, which it behoves the French court carefully to conceal.

Private letters by yeſterday's French mail ſay, that the government has taken up 150 Tartans at Marſeilles for the king's ſervice.

'Tis reported the Dutch have entered into a contract with the French, to ſupply them with 70 tranſport ſhips.

This morning ſeveral veſſels laden with ſtores for Gibraltar and Portmahon fell down the river, in order to proceed under convoy of the men of war ordered for the Mediterranean.

A draught is ordered to be made from the train of artillery, which is thought to be deſtined for Jerſey and Guernſey.

London, April 17. We hear that the chariot of a gentleman of fortune waited at a certain chocolate houſe laſt week from wedneſday evening till friday noon, when it drove away with a new maſter, the old one being turned out by the turn of a die.

On wedneſday 200 men were put on board a ſhip in the river for the [illegible]

Portſmouth, April 16. An order arrived yeſterday to ſink the fiſh prizes as ſoon as poſſible.

Berlin, April 9. His majeſty having ſome time ſince expreſſed himſelf in warm terms, reſpecting an accommodation between England and France, [illegible] French miniſter, duke de Nivernois, and [illegible] mediation to effect it, that miniſter very reſpectfully thanked his majeſty for his good intention, acquainting him that his laſt orders from Paris abſolved him from engaging his majeſty in ſuch an office, the Engliſh having aggravated the circumſtances of diſpute beyond the poſſibility of an amicable accommodation.

London, April 20. William Gerard Hamilton, Eſq; member for Peterſfield in Hants, is appointed one of the commiſſioners for trade and plantations, and a new writ is iſſued out to elect a member for that borough.

Thurſday night the Orford man of war, one of admiral Hawke's ſquadron, arrived at Plymouth, and brings advice that the admiral fell in with 4 French tranſports, 2 of which laden with proviſions, and a third having on board 173 ſerjeants and corporals, were taken; the 4th, with 250 ſoldiers was driven on ſhore, and all on board periſhed. The veſſels were bound to North-America, and are ſuppoſed to be part of thoſe that ſailed from Havre de Grace.

Admiral Holbourne ſail'd from Plymouth laſt thurſday, with 5 men of war and the tranſports, with 2 regiments on board, for America.

Yeſterday the right hon. the earl of London ſet out from his houſe in Privy-Garden, Whitehall, in order to embark for North America.

The great zeal of the nobility and gentry for his majeſty's ſervice having almoſt completed the corps for which impreſſed men were intended, notice is given in the London gazette, that his majeſty is graciouſly pleaſed to ſuſpend the farther execution of the act for the ſpeedy and effectual recruiting his majeſty's land forces, from the firſt of May next till further notice.

We learn that the Dutch have furniſhed the French at Dunkirk with doggers, galliotts, and other veſſels for their intended invaſion.

We hear from the iſle of Ely, that large commiſſions are come there to buy up oats and other grain, inſomuch that one man has already ſecured 5000 quarters of oats, beſides great quantities of rye. Whether this extraordinary demand is intended for exportation or home conſumption is not at preſent made public.

Private letters by yeſterday's Dutch mail adviſe, that great preparations are making at Toulon for the execution of an important expedition, calculated to deprive the Britiſh marine of its preſent opportunities of carrying on hoſtilities againſt the French in the Mediterranean: This enterprize is ſaid to be a deſcent on the iſland of Minorca, which will be made with 35 000 men, and be ſupported by a fleet of 18 men of war from Toulon.

Joſeph Child, Eſq; who was committed to the baſtile at Paris for not obeying the order of police lately put out there for the Engliſh to quit the kingdom, is releaſed.

The officers on board the French tranſport brought into Plymouth give an account that there were 24 of them to ſail ſeparately from different ports in France, with [illegible] forces, for Cape-Breton; ſo that 'tis hoped we ſhall have a further account of them.

On occaſion of the rumour, that the French intend to beſiege Portmahon, Sir Benjamin Keene waited on Mr. Wall, to ſignify to him the king his maſter's hopes, that his enemies would neither openly nor ſecretly receive from Spain any means of aſſiſtance in executing their enterprizes. His excellency hath ſince ſent an expreſs to England with advice that he had received the moſt cordial and poſitive aſſurances, that the Catholic king perſiſts in his reſolution to obſerve a ſtrict neutrality.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen,

I Return you my hearty thanks for this Addreſs: And do aſſure you, there is nothing can contribute more to the Happineſs of my Life, than if I may, in any Inſtance, reflect, with Truth, that I have been able effectually to promote the Welfare of the Inhabitants of this Province.

It gives me the moſt ſenſible Satiſfaction, that you have, ſo ſpeedily, and with ſo much Alacrity, voted a very conſiderable Supply to His Majeſty, for the different Services I recommended to you; and it ſhall be my conſtant Care, to ſee that the Money is employed in ſuch a Manner as may beſt anſwer the Purpoſes for which it is granted.

You may depend upon it, that I will, agreeable to your Requeſt, make Application, that one or more of His Majeſty's Ships of War may, at the proper Seaſon of the Year, be directed to convoy the Trade of this Province. WILLIAM HENRY LYTTELTON.
